

GET INTO GETSET

CASE STUDY: JUNIOR/PRIMARY SCHOOL

Fife is one of Scotland's largest Local Education Authorities and Balmullo Primary School was only the second School in Fife to join the Get Set Network. Located just a few miles from St Andrews, one of the Olympic torch relay sites, everyone at the School is starting to get excited about London 2012. Sophie Land is a Primary 7 pupil at the school and one of the Scottish regional winners of the Inspire>Aspire Values Posters Awards. By taking part in Inspire>Aspire, the school has been able to take an in-depth look at the values behind the Olympic and Paralympic Games.

“The Inspire>Aspire posters have been a Launchpad for the school to really get into all the fantastic learning opportunities for the children in the run up to London 2012. The Olympic and Paralympic values help us to develop core aspects of the curriculum and key themes like global citizenship and rights respecting schools. We are thrilled at becoming a Get Set Network School and are now busy making plans for how we can make the most of the learning opportunities as well as enhance physical activity at the school. We are also really looking forward to Sophie being presented her award by an Olympic athlete”.

CASE STUDY: SECONDARY/HIGH SCHOOL

*Inspire>Aspire Awards National Finalist

Taking part in the Inspire>Aspire Programme and using the Olympic and Paralympic Values as a focal point for their RME curriculum has been very successful in Grove Academy. Acting Principal Teacher of Religious and Moral Education, Gerry Dillon says,

“We believe that values education is crucial in the character formation of young people and are planning to develop a unit at the beginning of our first year that makes full use of Inspire>Aspire. Pupils will create a display to consider and reflect on values as they progress through the year. Ultimately, the pupils will take part in the awards having spent the whole year considering their values. Global citizenship and partnership working have always featured heavily in the teaching and learning within the School. Being part of the Get Set Network complements and supports our work perfectly and joining was easy. We received a letter from the Inspire>Aspire team telling us about the benefits and explaining how to register. I just followed the instructions”.

The Get Set network is the London 2012 reward and recognition scheme for the active community of schools and colleges across the UK that are demonstrating a commitment to living the Olympic and Paralympic Values. Members of the network gain the right to use the London 2012 education logo, and are given priority access to the most exclusive prizes and opportunities, including tickets to the Games at no cost to the school/college through the London 2012 Ticketshare initiative. There are currently over 3,000 members of the Get Set network. All schools participating in Inspire>Aspire are eligible to receive even greater reward and recognition from London 2012 by joining the Get Set network.
